Your Editors
Debbie Douglass
Delores "Mom" Douglass

Happy New Year! If you're not a Raven's fan, let me apologize now because this edition is mostly about Baltimore's phenomenal football team! Are you as proud as I? Hopefully, by the time the next edition arrives we will be celebrating our Super Bowl Champs. As a tribute to the Ravens, especially Linebacker #52, Ray Lewis, we've gone mad with purple this month.

Just as exciting is the second Inauguration of our 44th President, Barack Obama! We can't wait to get photos and articles about how you celebrated both of these remarkable events.

If you've never shared the Woodlawn Villager, this is the time to do it. We are carefully evaluating our options to continue in print due to the cost associated with printing and distribution. Every month, we feel we are getting closer to discontinuing. Pray for us.

That would be such a shame because it seems that the positive community news that we love to share has only increased over the years. We welcome your comments and suggestions as we get closer to making a final decision on this critical move.

This year, we celebrate our 10th year as editors of the Woodlawn Villager. The publication dates as far back as 1984 (based upon a premiere edition that was shown to us year ago). I inherited the Villager in February 2003 and Mom joined me officially in June. We have a lot to celebrate and a lot of good memories and stories to remember. We will be sharing some of them beginning next month, as well as including a few extra celebration articles. Stay tuned. In the meantime, enjoy this edition, consider advertising, and give us your feedback. Until next edition, stay blessed.

Resolving to Live for the Glory of God

The Italians, have a custom. As midnight on New Year's Eve approaches, the streets are clear. There is no traffic; there are no pedestrians; even the policemen take cover. Then, at the stroke of 12, the windows of the houses fly open. To the sound of laughter, music and fireworks, each member of the family pitches out old crockery, detested ornaments, hated furniture and a whole catalogue of personal possessions which remind them of something in the past year they are determined to wipe out of their minds. With the New Year come new opportunities to make new goals. Have you resolved to do anything different this year? While there may be some honorable and admirable reasons from making resolutions, the Christian's purpose for making them should be for the glory of God. In the Old Testament the word "glory" is translated from words which convey meanings such as "weight" and "heaviness" lending itself to the idea of worth, wealth or majesty. The word "glory" in the New Testament is translated from the Greek words doxa or dokeo, meaning an "opinion" (always good), "praise" or "honor." God's glory is His reputation. When it comes to making resolutions, it doesn't matter what your resolutions are; if you are a Christian, what matters is that your goal of success should be to bring glory to God. For example, if you want to lose weight like me, it should be for the glory of God. Some do it for the glory of girls or guys. Others want to attain "six pack abs" or "buns of steel". If you want to stop a habit, like smoking, drinking or even biting your nails, it should be for the glory of God. (1 Corinthians 3:16-17 - Do you not know that you are the temple of God and that the Spirit of God dwells in you? If anyone defiles the temple of God, God will destroy him. For the temple of God is holy, which temple you are.) If you are resolving to stop shouting at your kids (or your spouse), it should be for the glory of God (read Ephesians 6:4). Perhaps you are indulging in a cycle of immorality such as sleeping around, pornography or even fanaticizing about an illicit relationship. Your desire for deliverance from these sins should be for the glory of God. 1 Thessalonians 4:3-5 says, "It is God's will that you should be sanctified: that you should avoid sexual immorality; that each of you should learn to control his own body in a way that is holy and honorable, not in passionate lust like the heathen, who do not know God..." If you are one who has resolved not to steal anymore—perhaps you are not completely honest with the IRS for example, the Christian's resolve to break this cycle of stealing arises from a conviction found in God's Word. Exodus 20:15 says, "You shall not steal." Whether it be eating smarter, spending less, driving safer, spending more time with you family; whatever it is, the Christian's purpose for making resolutions should be for the glory of God. Let's resolve together in 2013 to make improvements that please God and thus cause His reputation to shine! Much of the Bible Points material comes from the sermons of Pastor Chuck Brooks who serves as pastor-teacher of GraceWay Church, 2001 North Rolling Road, Baltimore, MD. You can listen to or download many of Chuck's sermons at www.mygraceway.org or keep up with the events sponsored by GraceWay on our Facebook page.

End Of An Era Thank You Ray

As we say good-bye to our legendary Raven, I can only think back to his rookie year when I met him. It is with both pleasure and respect that I can say he will be sorely missed. Is it the dance the passion and motivation in which he spurred us on to a Super Bowl and countless wins over the years or is it the way his play transended football mortality. Every decade or so we as fans have the privledge to watch a super performer, and Ray was it for my stay in Baltimore. This man answered the bell every week he was able. Pro football players have a career life of three to five years, and then they are gone. Ray lasted five times that and did it with grace and style. As we at the villager say good bye to Ray for the last time I want to thank him for his dedication to the community and the city of Baltimore. I hope the Ravens go all the way but whether they do or not will not diminish Ray's commiteement to excellence.

CMSA Spring Soccer League

The league will consist of six games scheduled

Brain Injuries

This is a subject that should not be taken lightly. Every year that I have coached I have seen players hit hard and I wonder, are they really ok? As a person who is connected to a victim of brain trauma I have seen how all the hits plays out over a person's life time. Football is not the only sport with a lot trauma to the head soccer, lacrosse, baseball, and basketball players also suffer trauma to the brain. As a parent I urge you to if your child takes a blow to the head to check them out after the game. Schools are geting better but they are not trained to detect all the symptoms of head trauma. A star player wants to play and so does his coach. As a community we need to monitor our youngsters better in order to protect them from themselves. A game played now could ruin a childs academic future by causing extra trauma to the brain without time to heal itself.

for Sunday afternoons; teams can register for the league's Old Line State Classic tournament in April at a discounted fee. The league offers the single age groupings of 8 through 14 and the dual ages of 15/16 and 17/18 for both both separate boys and girls competition. Ages 7 through 12 will compete 8v8, with ages 12 through 17 competing 11v11.

performance management, hiring for success, employment law and leadership skills.

A member of the National Afterschool Association, the Maryland School Age Child Care Association and Girl Talk-Baltimore Chapter, she resides in Randallstown with her husband, Dr. Michael Ford, and their two daughters.

Junior Achievement of Central Maryland is dedicated to inspiring and preparing young people to succeed in a global economy. Through a dedicated volunteer network, Junior Achievement provides in-school and after-school programs for kindergarten through 12th grade students which focus on work readiness, entrepreneurship and financial literacy. Founded in 1957, the non-profit organization annually serves more than 33,000 students throughout Central Maryland. For more information, visit www.jamaryland.org.

Gwynn Oak Mother Honored for Earning Diploma

Submitted by Caryn Sagal

Bahiya Abdul-Aziz

More than 225 learners and 36 graduates participated in South Baltimore Learning Center's (SBLC) Fall 2012 Learner Recognition and Graduation ceremony. Held twice a year, The event recognizes adult learners who have earned their diplomas through completing General Educational Development (GED) classes and passing the GED exam, or have demonstrated competency in 65 academic/life skills through the External Diploma Program (EDP).

Graduate speaker was Gwynn Oak resident, Bahiya Abdul-Aziz. She started the EDP, while maintaining her household, and running Delectable Confections, her home-based business! She pursued her diploma to be a role model for her children and demonstrate that it's never too late to complete an education.

De Jackson On Family and Careers

Hello family,

I would like to wish all of you a wonderful 2013. I think we should give serious kudos to the Villager for keeping our communities connected. It's not easy with so many things pulling families apart these days. Have faith, keep your children in positive activities and follow the old golden rule.

I have mentioned this before, but feel it is worth mentioning again, to start documenting family traditions. One of my sons gave me a small book to do just that. I know most of you are now using Facebook, Twitter or cell phones, but every once in a while I like to see a real "paper" photo. My sister presented an album to an older family member during our annual prayer dinner. We all looked, laughed and cried. What cool memories all at the flip of a page.

If you are going to make New Years resolutions, make realistic ones. Don't set yourself up for failure at the beginning of the year. Make sure your new goals are going to impact your life in a positive way. Maybe you'll choose to help someone else in their journey thru life. It's known that, Random Acts of Kindness will bring lifelong rewards. Hey-what about the power and gift of forgiveness? Life is short. I have learned that life is not all about me. It's about providing service to others. Go for it.

As a side note, I used to be called the Career Doctor at work. So, I came up with this catchy phrase - The Career Doctor makes her last house call -into retirement. Yep-after 41 1/2 years I retired December 30. So, to my SSA friends, keep up with me via the Villager, Facebook, or at Morning Star Baptist in Catonsville. I will miss you dearly. I think an in-house reception is planned for me in January. Maybe I will celebrate again in the Spring, when the weather is warmer.

Until next time, enjoy life my family. Become a mentor or volunteer this year. Above all, pray and be good to one another.

K-Pop Comes to the Library By Debbie Bastacky

On Mondays, the KPop club for teens meets at the library after school. K-pop music, which comes from South Korea, has been sweeping across Asia, Europe and now the United States since the late 90's. Although it has spread like wildfire with the teens, the adults are just starting to hear about it, so don't feel left out if you've never heard about it until now.

KPop is a huge business in South Korea, contributing 2 billion dollars a year to their economy. (The New Yorker, 10-8-12 "Cultural Technology and the Making of KPop") If you want to hear some of their music or learn more about K-pop, go to YouTube, Facebook or Twitter. KPop idols perform live in concerts across the U. S. and appear on talk shows and movies made for TV. Their success is largely due to social media. Music producers turned toward social media when CD sales in Korea started to spiral downwards year after year.

K pop is a combination of new and old, Western and traditional. The lyrics are primarily in Korean, although some are in English. The music sounds Western, with strong rhythmical beats borrowed from Hip Hop, Rap, and Pop. The performers are mostly Koreans in their teens, who are groomed for this job from a very young age. Their outfits are fashionable; Their dance moves are synchronized and described as "sexy and demure." (New Yorker) If their audience is younger, such as pre-adolescents, the lyrics are toned down a bit.

Our teens are very enthusiastic about the KPop Club at the Woodlawn Library. So far, they have learned to write their names in Korean, made a beef dish called Bulgogi, and have played Korean Jeopardy, answering questions about Korean history, current events and culture. There are about 15 teens who come regularly to the club and there's always room for more!

Entertainment Review

BY LARRY KATZ

Is Ray Lewis the Next Michael Strahan?

Ray Lewis retired the other day from the Ravens. He may just be beginning a bright second career before he even folds up his fabled #52 jersey. There is nothing new about famous athletes becoming movie or tv stars. Olympic swimmer Johnny Weismuller became Tarzan. Bubba Smith was in the Police Academy movies. Bob Uecker was in Major League. Jim Brown was in films as was Terry Bradshaw and Joe Namath. Mark Harmon and Merlin Olsen were star athletes long before acting success. Tiki Barber is in the media and look who is sitting next to Kelly Ripa now that Regis is retired...Michael Strahan. Ray has reportedly already been offered a job by ESPN. We know he'll have a steady career in sports reporting. Can movies be far behind? Knowing Ray's determination, we may just see him one day starring in a movie at a theatre near you.

Ray Lewis Day- 01-06-13 “A Families Thoughts And Reflections”

Amirah C. Burnett & Derrick A. Burnett II celebrating RAY DAY: “To be a part of the 71,000 fans in attendance and witness Ray Lewis’s final home game was an unforgettable experience. For 17 years the man of the hour, played the game the right way, week in and week out and gave it all he could for the city of Baltimore. The Ravens franchise would not be where they are today without their original draft pick. You couldn’t name one other professional athlete whose pre-game introduction, pumps up the crowd and teammates more that Ray Lewis does!!!”
Derrick A. Burnett II “

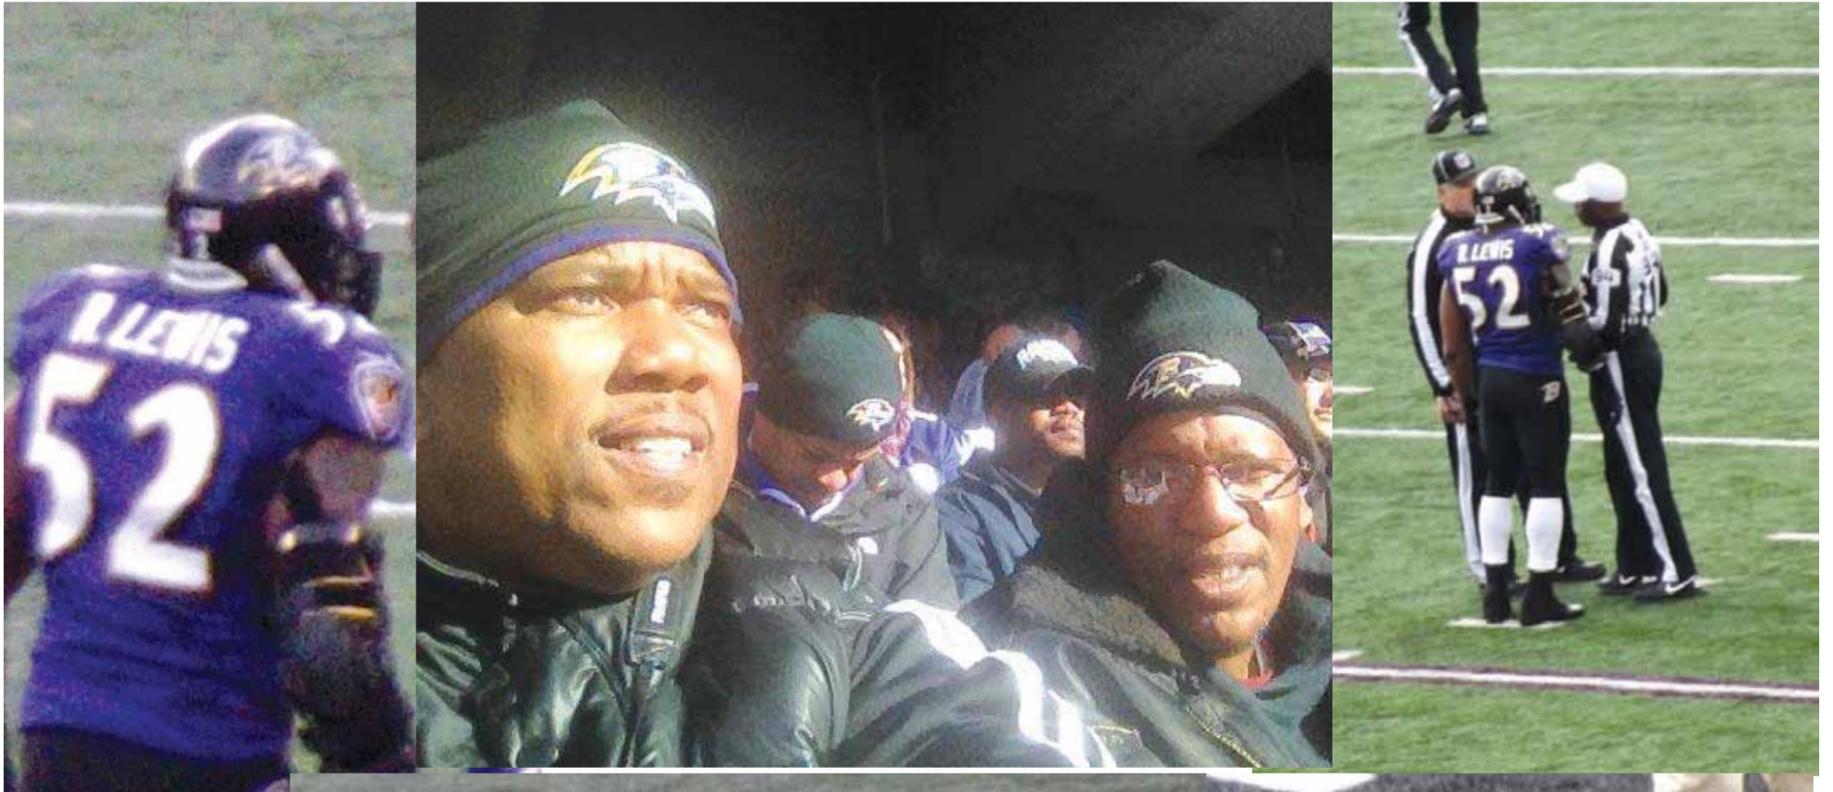

Sari Burnett (4), Steven D. Burnett Sr. Steven D. Burnett II (5) (JAN. 2001) Wearing Ray Lewis’s 1st MVP Super Bowl & Pro Bowl Jersey, have been fans as long as they have been able to REMEMBER!!. Twelve years later, the family is still celebrating Mr. Ray Lewis. (Steven D. Burnett II (17), Kevin Boyd, Amirah C. Burnett, Sarai Bur-

Derrick A. Burnett Sr.

“Today is a very emotional day for all Ravens fans. It’s bitter sweet, to see our champ play in his city for the last time. Bitter because we won’t be able to come and support one of our favorite players, and sweet because we know it’s for a good reason, to spend time with his family. I grew up watching him come out of that tunnel, with all the energy in the world, claiming his field with his unforgettable signature dance that not only fired up him and his teammates but the fans as well... This day will go down in history, and I’m just glad to be a part of it.” # savethelastdance

Kamenetz Announces Legislative Priorities Focus on School Renovation and Construction Funding

Towson, Maryland (January 8, 2013) - Baltimore County Executive Kevin Kamenetz's legislative agenda has a very specific focus in 2013: public education, public education, public education.

The County Executive held meetings with each of the County's legislative district delegations during December to discuss the upcoming session. During those meetings, Baltimore County legislators expressed support for efforts to secure more education funding from the State.

"We have one of the oldest school inventories in the State, and 80 percent of our schools are more than 40 years old" said County Executive Kamenetz. "We have an aging infrastructure that must be addressed. When I took office in 2010, 54 percent of the County schools did not have air conditioning. In just two years, we have reduced that number to 36 percent, and we must continue to chip away at that issue."

O'Malley Announced Millions for Schools

On Monday, Governor O'Malley announced $336 million in State funding for school renovation and construction projects across the State, including $25 million for air conditioning. The County Executive will seek support for the following education funding during the session:

- $123 million school renovation and construction

- $16.8 million from Energy Efficient Grants

- $5 million for Safe School Initiatives

The school system's $123 million capital request includes funding for a new elementary school along the York Road corridor, renovation and addition for Hereford High School, renovations for Pikesville High, Overlea High and Catonsville Elementary School.

The request also includes funding for air conditioning at the following elementary schools: Timonium, Fort Garrison, Middleborough, Franklin, Sussex, Hebbville, Woodmoor, and Middlesex.

Over the past 10 years, Baltimore County has invested more than $1 billion in school renovation and construction projects, and the State has contributed $350 million, for a total investment of nearly $1.4 billion since 2003.

"Given Baltimore County's aging schools, it is imperative that we get a bigger piece of the school funding pie," said the County Executive. "Last year, Baltimore County only received 12.8 percent of the total allocation, and that is simply not sufficient."

County Executive Kamenetz also addressed the importance of funding for school safety initiatives. On the first day of school this year, a Perry

Hall High School student was shot in the school cafeteria, and following the tragedy at Sandy Hook, the County Executive wrote a letter to State and Federal officials urging them to pass effective gun safety legislation. In that letter he called for legislation that would: stop allowing exceptions to national background checks; stop the sale of military-grade assault weapons that can out-gun our police officers; and, stop the sale of high capacity magazines of more than 10 rounds.

"Police Chief Jim Johnson and his public safety team are working with Superintendent Dance's school security staff to conduct a comprehensive review of school safety in Baltimore County," said Kamenetz. "That group will be making specific recommendations in the near future, and State funding for school safety initiatives will be very important as we move forward."

County Executive Kamenetz also said that he will work with the delegation and the leadership in Annapolis to fund the County's transportation priorities: Expanded MARC Train Station in Middle River; Improvements to Reisterstown Road and its associated intersections; and improvements to I-695 and I-83.

"We have serious work to do over the next 90 days," concluded the County Executive. "In Baltimore County, we move beyond partisan politics to get things done, and we will do just that throughout the session."

Baltimore City Community College Board Names Interim President

BALTIMORE - The Board of Trustees of Baltimore City Community College has announced the appointment of Dr. Carolyn Hull Anderson as interim president.

Dr. Anderson's extensive professional experience in higher education includes nearly 30 years of service at BCCC, beginning in 1970.

Dr. Anderson began her career at BCCC as a full-time faculty member, attaining the rank of full professor. During her tenure she rose to the positions of assistant to the associate dean of arts and science; chair of English, Speech, Foreign

Dr. Carolyn Hull Anderson

Languages, Art and Music; and director of the academic development program.

Dr. Anderson holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Morgan State University; a Master of Science and a Master of Liberal Arts degree from the Johns Hopkins University; and a doctorate in adult and community college education from North Carolina State University at Raleigh.

Kamenetz Launches Baltimore County Restaurant Week

Participating restaurants to offer specials January 11 - 27

Towson, MD - Baltimore County Executive Kevin Kamenetz will join Baltimore County Chamber of Commerce President Keith Scott to launch Baltimore County Winter Restaurant Week, which runs January 11 - 27. Forty-three participating restaurants across the County will feature special menus at a discounted, fixed price, offering one to three course lunch and dinner specials ranging from $10.13 to $35.13.

The kick-off for Restaurant Week will take place at Patrick's of Cockeysville on January 10 at 11:30 a.m., where Kamenetz will encourage County residents and visitors to dine out and savor local flavor and delicious deals. "Baltimore County's restaurants provide not only enjoyment for its patrons, but employment to nearly 25,000 workers," states Kamenetz.

Several participating restaurants will serve samples of their Restaurant Week fare at the kick-off.

According to OpenTable, the online site for making reservations, Baltimore County Summer Restaurant Week 2012 saw over 1500 diners seated for the promotion via online reservations. Online reservations showed an increase of 53% over the previous summer.

A full list of participating restaurants, menus, and reservation links can be found at www.baltimorecountymd.gov.

Resolutions

This year I have only two resolutions I am DETERMINED to keep. 1.) Eat more fruits and vegetables. 2.) Engrave In my mindset that there are no leftovers, just second chances. In this vein, I have discovered this recipe that fits these resolutions.

It is a muffin, no dessert. I bought two of these decadent treats at a local church bazaar before the holidays. I went on line to see if there was a similar recipe and lo! And behold! It was right there. The directions and ingredients were so simple that's it's almost sinful.

This all brings me back to my first resolution, leftovers. You know that one can of pumpkin puree left over from holiday baking? The one that is gathering dust on the shelf.

Pumpkin is highly nutritious, but what to do with it? The kids won't eat it plain as a vegetable. It won't keep until next year and you hate to see good money go to waste.

Try this recipe. It's incredibly easy. It will be popular with the entire family. A handful of currants or mini chocolate chips may be added if you wish.

Chocolate-Pumpkin Muffins

Preheat oven to 350 degrees
1 box chocolate cake mix, any brand

1 15-ounce can pumpkin puree (no pie filling)

Mix the two ingredients well. The batter will be very thick and heavy.

Put the batter into muffin cups with paper or foil (best) muffin liners. Bake 25-30 minutes. Cool. Watch them disappear.

I have also iced them with cream cheese icing and orange butter cream icing. I bet they do well as mini muffins, too.

In Loving Memory of Ellamae M. Lewis

Ellamae M. Lewis was born in Pigtown, February 2, 1918. She died at St. Elizabeth in Baltimore, December 24, 2012. She was the daughter of the late Hattie A. (Fisher) and John H. Lewis.

She attended Baltimore City public schools She married Charles E. Creek, Sr. on November 26, 1939. He died in November 1978.

Christmas was her favorite time of the year. She always remembered family and friends on their birthdays,". She enjoyed sewing. She enjoyed traveling and was fortunate to see the Oberammergau Passion Play in Bavaria.

She was a member of St. Jerome's and the Sodality, Senior Citizens Club, the Parish Council, a Eucharistic Minister and a choir member for almost 50 years.

She was preceded in death by three brothers, John Lewis Jr., Charles Lewis and William Lewis, one sister Virginia Brooks, two sons Henry Lewis and Lawrence Creek and two grandsons, Michael Lewis and Kenneth Rice.

She is survived by one son, SGM. Charles E. Creek Jr., three daughters, Patricia Lewis, Virginia Creek and Regina Ravenell; a dear friend, Kathleen Whaley and a host of other relatives and friends.

Conversations with Life Coach Valerie Matthews-Haynes

Don't Stop Believing

Dear Val,
I need encouragement. I set several goals for 2012, I am discouraged because my goals will not be met. I want to self-publish my first book and complete nursing assistant certification (CNA). I've completed the rough draft of my book and I have completed 3 of 7 courses for my CNA.

What slows me down is that I am juggling a full time job with home responsibilities, CNA classes, book writing, and other stuff. People who don't share my dream negatively influence me. My siblings tell me that I am wasting my time with book writing. My mom says I am wasting my money with my CNA classes. She thinks I should be working on something computer related.

I showed my manuscript to a few friends and a former professor. They all loved what they read and encouraged me to move forward. My grades have been B+ and higher in CNA classes. I believe in what I am doing but I am discouraged because I thought that I'd be much further along by now. How can I stay motivated?
Signed, Discouraged

Dear Discouraged,
My advice is very simple. Don't stop believing!! It's difficult to stay focused on a goal when important people in your life don't support your efforts. Ask around and check the internet to identify people who are working on similar things.

Look for local meetings with "Meetup" groups in your area. Check social networking groups. (I know for a fact that there are Facebook groups for aspiring writers and self-publishers.)

Consider accountability partners. Accountability partners are people who work together, often remotely, toward achieving their respective goals. Often the partnership is as simple as friends who touch base weekly or daily in 15-minute phone calls to check in, find out status of the latest goal, to briefly brainstorm on overcoming obstacles, and to discuss the next step in the process.

Stay connected with supportive friends and acquaintances. Surround yourself with images of where you are headed. Post pictures of your book cover. Display pictures of your (future) CNA certificate. Make these images the last thing you "see" at night and the first things you think about in the morning. It is critically important that you focus on your progress, not your problems. And, don't stop believing in yourself!

Woodlawn Residents Sworn in as Baltimore County CASAs

TOWSON, Md. – Having completed 30 hours of classroom training and two to three hours of court observation, Peggy Nicholson and Lela M. Yorbor of Woodlawn are officially able to help abused or neglected children in foster care.

Judge Kathleen G. Cox recently swore in the two women as Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASAs), along with three other Maryland residents.

Despite their diverse backgrounds – Nicholson is a government contractor, and Yorbor a retired grandmother, both women share a common goal – helping others in need.

“I feel as though it is my obligation to give back to the community that has been so good to me,” said the former Social Security Administration manage-

Securityplus Federal Credit Union Celebrates Three Weeks of Charitable Giving

Baltimore, MD, January 8, 2013 – During the month of December, Securityplus Federal Credit Union (SFCU) participated in a 'three weeks of giving' initiative to benefit those less fortunate in the Baltimore community.

Credit Union staff chose the following charities: Baltimore Outreach Service, Toys for Tots and the Maryland Food Bank. Each week, a specific charity was highlighted, and members and staff were able to share in this experience.

SFCU had an overwhelming response receiving monetary donations, as well as, women's clothing, soaps and lotions to benefit Baltimore Outreach Services; new, unwrapped toys for Toys for Tots; and non-perishable and canned food to benefit the Maryland Food Bank.

"As an organization, our hope is that we could positively impact people in our community during the holiday season," said Brett Noll, SFCU Chief Executive Officer. "The generosity of our staff and members made me even prouder to be part of this great team."

Securityplus Federal Credit Union is a $365 million not-for-profit, member-owned, full service financial institution, with eight branches in Baltimore, Maryland, including their newest branch, in the Roland Park

Shopping Center. SFCU serves over 33,000 members in the greater Baltimore community.
